

Ets. Jean-Pierre Moueix - The 2025 Vintage Release

We tasted the nascent 2025 wines from the Moueix portfolio in the gorgeously airy new winery at Chateau Bélair-Monange with its views over St Emilion's limestone plateau and the Dordogne plain. You would have to be a particularly tough nut not to feel your spirits lifted just at the view alone, and so it proved for the wines too. These are indeed wines that bring a smile to your face and remind you exactly what Bordeaux is famous for.

Christian Moueix described 2025 as a very good vintage whilst Edouard Moueix was even more upbeat, highlighting the consistency and overall freshness achieved on both sides of the river, in Merlot and Cabernet-based wines alike. As elsewhere, yields were below average – a knock-on effect of the challenging 2024 season and the drought conditions of 2025. However, the family's deep-rooted vines, well-established in clay and limestone soils, proved resilient, digging deep to find sufficient moisture and nutrients to ensure full, even ripening. Harvest was early and efficient, starting for many of their properties on 1st September and completed within a fortnight. In the cellar, the focus was on infusion over extraction, with gentle vinification preserving the vibrant freshness of the fruit.

The Moueix family is one of the most astute when it comes to reading the market, and this year is no exception. Pricing has been kept in tight check, with most releases comfortably below 2022 levels and often even beneath the 2020 pricing – our benchmark for value in this campaign.

What is more, these are wines which will bring immense pleasure at all levels, from the less expensive, smaller properties right up to the big guns of La Fleur-Pétrus and Bélair-Monange. Please remember that the Grands Vins in Pomerol are severely reduced in volume and will be sold on allocation. Don't miss them.

Saint Emilion

Château Peymouton, Grand Cru St Emilion	2025	12 bottles	£148
---	------	------------	------

95% Merlot, 5% Cabernet Franc, packed in a wooden case

From unclassified vineyards belonging to Château Laroque, St Emilion Grand Cru Classé, the wine is grown and vinified by the same team. Dense purple red to the rim with a joyful nose of creamed red and black fruits, lightly spiced, leading to an equally creamy palate of juicy bright fruit, soft and supple with equally pliant tannins behind, going to a lovely, easy-going finish with a zip of freshness on the end. This will drink well young and in time. Drink 2030 - 2038

Château Pindefleurs, Grand Cru St Emilion	2025	6 bottles	£80

90% Merlot, 10% Cabernet Franc

Located on the sunny Dordogne plain below the village of St Emilion. Deep but not dense to the rim with a nose of tight black fruits, lightly creamed blackcurrant, leading to a palate of fresh black fruit, spiced with a hint of orange zest, with more grippy tannins behind and going to a lighter, juicily fruited finish. Drink 2030 - 2039

Château La Serre, Grand Cru Classé St Emilion	2025	6 bottles	£195
---	------	-----------	------

73% Merlot, 27% Cabernet Sauvignon, packed in a wooden case

From a seven hectare vineyard just below St Emilion on stark limestone and clay. Deep to the rim with a nose of rich red and black fruit, cherry clafoutis, with its usual lush coating of new oak, grilled and spiced, leading to a palate of substantial dark fruits, spiced with cinnamon, mouthwateringly fresh with substantial yet supple tannins behind and going to a deliciously long finish which grows and evolves. Drink 2030 - 2042

Château Bélair-Monange, 1er Grand Cru Classé St Emilion	2025	6 bottles	£530

98% Merlot, 2% Cabernet Franc, packed in a wooden case

Deep red right to the rim – not opaque, not purple – with a very tightly fruited nose, light blackcurrants, redcurrant coulis, some rhubarb and loganberry, but also savoury and alluring; incredibly smooth on the palate with ripe red berry fruit, cherry clafoutis with lightly grilled notes, and then more serious fruit and concentration coming through and masking the substantial ripe tannins, mouthfilling, spiced, juicy, and OH SO LONG on the finish! Drink 2030 - 2046+

Pomerol

Château Chantalouette, Pomerol	2025	12 bottles	£195
--------------------------------	------	------------	------

87% Merlot, 13% Cabernet Franc; 30% new oak, packed in a wooden case

Second wine of Château de Sales. Bright red black to the rim, not dense, with a nose of creamed red berry fruit, some clafoutis and redcurrant coulis, bright and fresh. Juicy on the palate with lithe red berry fruit, some black fruit behind with very supple tannins, spiced and smooth on the finish with the tannins only coming through on the end. Easy going and delicious. Drink 2030 - 2038

Château Plince, Pomerol	2025	12 bottles	£240

87% Merlot, 13% Cabernet Franc; 30% new oak, packed in a wooden case

Next to Château Nenin, close to the Pomerol perimeter. Deep but not opaque red black with a nose of spiced, creamed red and black fruits, juicy and really alluring, with both oriental and oak spices showing. Substantial black fruits come through on the palate, juicy with fruit-coated tannins behind and a spiced, fresh and supremely long finish which just keeps on giving. Drink 2030 - 2041

Château Lagrange, Pomerol	2025	6 bottles	£146

100% Merlot, with 30% new oak, packed in a wooden case

On the northern edge of the appellation, with just 4.65 hectares of vines. Deep not dense in colour to the rim with a nose of juicy, primary blackcurrant fruit, really alluring, creamed and supple, just so juicy! The substantial black fruit has some lightly grilled notes too, plums and red berries with supple tannins behind and going to a deliciously juicy (again) finish with lovely freshness. This will make so many people smile. Drink 2030 - 2038

Château Lafleur-Gazin, Pomerol	2025	6 bottles	£160

100% Merlot with 50% new oak, packed in a wooden case

Located between Châteaux La Fleur-Pétrus and Gazin on the edge of the plateau, on gravel and clay. Deep, dense in colour with a tightly wound nose of dark fruits, lightly grilled, perfumed with some oriental spices. Initially lighter on the palate with pretty, supple red berry fruit, but then the volume gets turned up with more spiced red and black fruits coming through, floral and primary with substantial ripe tannins behind and going to a deliciously alluring, spiced finish. Drink 2028 - 2040

Château Bourgneuf, Pomerol	2025	6 bottles	£205

92% Merlot, 8% Cabernet Franc; 35% new oak, packed in a wooden case

Towards the western edge of Pomerol, next to Château Trotanoy and benefitting from similar clay-rich soils. Deep red purple to the rim, not opaque, with a nose of very primary black fruit, red cherries with some spice behind, and then darker fruits coming through. Very concentrated on the palate with big black fruit and again a red cherry note, with supple tannins which build on the palate, spiced and vibrant with lovely density and depth and going to a long, evolving finish. Drink 2031 - 2042

Château Hosanna, Pomerol	2025	6 bottles	£580

74% Merlot, 26% Cabernet Franc, packed in a wooden case

Just 4.5 hectares of vines located on the famous Pomerol plateau. Deep to red on the rim, less opaque than in other years with a nose of rich, savoury red fruits, distant black fruits but principally redcurrant and red berries. Lots of fruit on the palate – sloes, plums – with a lovely savoury note, a hint of leather, ripe and mouthwatering, spiced, creamed and structured with substantial ripe tannins behind, all encompassing. So very Hosanna! Drink 2034 - 2044+

Château La Fleur-Pétrus	2025	6 bottles	£725

97% Merlot, 3% Petit Verdot, packed in a wooden case

Deep red black to the rim with a nose of juicy red and black fruits, creamed and grilled, really rich and complex, with a light iodine and green stem note. Juicy red berry fruits on the palate, super-fresh and vibrant, mouthfilling not mouthcoating, lightly spiced, supple, super-juicy and really alluring with the tannins only just visible behind the fruit on the finish. Beautifully understated, with the finish building to a crescendo of red fruits. Drink 2030 - 2046+
